Twenty-Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time

September 11, 2011

In Nomini Domini,

In the Name of the Lord

Dear Parish Family,

Today, ten years ago, this nation was shaken by the events of September 11th. We watched in shock and horror as planes purposefully crashed into the World Trade Center, the Pentagon, and into a field in western Pennsylvania.

I was getting ready to attend the funeral of a young seminarian that fateful morning. Like most mornings, I was sipping a cup of coffee and glancing over the daily newspaper. The TV was on, and then came the breaking news, a plane had crashed into the World Trade Center. It was shocking and disturbing to say the very least. I prayed for those on the plane and those in the building. What a horrible accident, or so I thought; when moments later the second plane, before my eyes flew into the other tower. I could feel my shock turn to anger, outrage. I was sick to my stomach. I went to the funeral, and by the time I arrived at the Church, the pentagon had been hit. There was clearly fear and panic in the streets of Philadelphia that day. The city of brotherly love was filled with fear and anger.

Today in our Gospel we hear that most powerful of questions by St. Peter, "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?" Jesus said to him, "I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven". Jesus is saying to Peter, there is no limit, you must forgive! It is not politically correct to speak about the need for forgiveness, and yet Our Blessed Lord is clear, "So also my heavenly Father will do to every one of you, if you do not forgive your brother from your heart".

This Sunday at 7pm, I invite you to come, and pray for the gift of peace and reconciliation. Let us gather around Jesus, truly present upon our altar, and ask him for the gift of peace and forgiveness for we need it, and our world needs it!

Rev. Shane D. Stevens

An Authentic Update

Music and the New Translations, Nathan Knutson

Sometimes in order to know where we are going, we need to know where we have been. In our Church Liturgy, it is good to pause and remember that the Saints, in great majority, prayed the Mass in Greek and Latin. The New Translation of the Roman Missal, because of its careful linguistic changes, will allow us to pray the Mass in a new way. It will also allow us to better connect with the way our ancestors prayed. The Second Vatican Council encouraged this continuity, especially by upholding the esteemed treasury of Sacred Music. Today we see the renaissance of the Sacred, not only with the reminder of the importance of the Extraordinary Form, but with a heartfelt desire to reconnect with ancient tradition as a whole. The Holy Father, for example, often prays the Preface and Canon of the Mass in Latin, as we saw a few weeks ago in his Papal Visit to the United Kingdom. This is a beautiful sign of unity, allowing for greater participation amidst a very diverse world. As Americans however, despite our ever more diverse culture, we sometimes fail to see the need for this unification, partly because we have witnessed a time detached from ancient tradition. Music is the most tangible sign of this rupture with the past. In our own country we have endured the wildest musical creativity within our Churches. However, this was not the intention of the 2nd Vatican Council or our pontiffs. Pope Paul VI personally witnessed this break, and took steps in an attempt to remedy the loss of the Sacred. Subsequently in 1976, he issued a minimum repertoire of Sacred music in a small pamphlet entitled "Jubilare Deo." Virtually unknown today, it is uncertain why this clear directive was not utilized to any great degree. Perhaps it was lost in the desire for novelty. The Council itself used the words "inestimable value" about the ancient chants and choral music of the Church, calling the congregation to sing the parts of the Mass in Latin that pertain to them. Perhaps some believe this is outdated in our time? Venerable Pope John Paul the Great and indeed our present Holy Father have clarified this for our personal sanctification and edification. In 2003, during his centenary message of Pope St. Pius X's document on Sacred Music, Pope John Paul II stated: "The Christian community must make an examination of conscience so that the beauty of music and song will return increasingly to the liturgy." Pope Benedict XVI is famed for saying: "An authentic updating of sacred music can take place only in the lineage of the great tradition of the past, of Gregorian chant and sacred polyphony." Very simply, Catholic Sacred music should be suitable for the temple, not taken from outside of it. Chant and chant-like music, as well as Sacred choir pieces or "polyphony" are "endowed with a certain holy sincerity of form." As instructed, we need to give it the "pride of place" in our Liturgies.
