Weddings

Couples planning to be married must contact the parish six months before the proposed wedding date.

Dear Parish Family,

In a interview last year, Cardinal Avery Dulles alluded to what he considered the greatest difficulty the Catholic Church will face in the 21st century...that is the growing trend towards the lack of Catholic identity within our own Catholic Church. Perhaps the reason for this malaise is the fact that over the past four decades Catholic popular trends moved towards making all of our external signs and symbols...quite frankly generically Catholic neutral, or settling for just plain "Christian".

Benedict XVI it seems understands the need for internal evangelization within the Catholic Church. His outreaching messages to youth in the Church make it plainly clear that the future of theological conversion within Catholicism is rooted deeply in a historically rooted appreciation of the radical call that the Gospel message and Catholic sacraments signify for the global development of the Western world.

Our Holy Father, Benedict XVI, said, "First and foremost, every Catholic educational institution is a place to encounter the living God who in Jesus Christ reveals his transforming love and truth. This relationship elicits a desire to grow in the knowledge and understanding of Christ and his teaching." I would add that this encounter with the living God must be found, lived and experienced in every parish, home and school. You can have all of the external elements of the faith, and yet not be Catholic, not have a profound personal encounter with God.

The goal of the Catholic life is a lifelong, personal intimate relationship with our Lord Jesus. The goal is to live in such friendship with Christ that the three Persons of the Trinity will come and make an abode in the soul in this life, and bring the hope of attaining the Beatific Vision, our ultimate end, in the next life. It should be emphasized that this goal cannot be reached without living the moral life, so as to advance in holiness in the imitation of Christ.

Peace to you and yours, Fr. Shane D. Stevens

DISPELLING MYTHS ABOUT CHURCH MUSIC

Myth 6. The church does not have her own hymnal.

The Graduale Romanum is the official hymnal for the Roman rite. It contains Latin chants for the entrance, the Psalm and Gospel acclamation, the offertory and Communion, which are collectively called the Propers of the Mass, for every Mass of the year.

They also provide Latin chants for Lord have mercy, glory to God, the creed, holy holy holy and Lamb of God, collectively called the Ordinary of the Mass. Music at Mass should always refer to these texts.

What is called Gregorian chant is the music proper to the Roman rite and is the church's own composition. Much of the music sung since ancient times was gathered by Pope St. Gregory the Great in the sixth century, and the church has amplified the texts from time to time.

The monks of Solesmes have done several critical editions of this hymnal, including one which can be used for the reformed liturgy. Pastors and musicians may provide for other music at Mass, and even develop other hymnals, but Gregorian chant has, as Vatican II tells us, pride of place in the liturgy. The Graduale Romanum is an indispensable tool for the church musician.
